The operator proceeded with the activities knowing that the approvals had not been obtained. Previous inspections had reminded the operator of the importance of the permit amendment and approval process. Therefore, it was apparent that the violation was a result of indifference to DOGM regulations.

The inspector's statement revealed that Plate 3-1 was submitted to satisfy a conditional approval for amendment ACT/015/032-91B. The plate contained numerous errors. The plate failed to depict the current surface facilities and was not accurate; additionally, the plate incorporated proposed facilities that had not been approved by the division. The disturbed area boundary depicted that area of disturbance as encroaching on the existing stream buffer zone for Crandall Creek when compared with previous maps. In actuality, this is unlikely; however, the certified map depicted this to be the case. Both the disturbed area and permit area boundaries were inaccurate and contour information had been removed that was prevalent in the originally approved plate.

The inspector's statement revealed that the operator had proceeded with the culvert removal knowing that approvals had not been obtained. I have had several conversations with the operator and their consultants (Brent Bove, Earthfax Engineering) regarding the information required to grant an approval for removal of this culvert. I have, in those conversations, emphasized that the culvert must be maintained and functional until an approval to route the drainage into the mine is submitted and approved. In fact, the Division recently approved an emergency amendment to replace the culvert with a smaller pipe. Division approval for that amendment was granted on September 10, 1991, (Amendment ACT/015/032-91E). To date, the Division has not received any submittals for an amendment to the MRP to remove culvert UD-3.
